CIBER AWARDED FIVE-YEAR OUTSOURCING CONTRACT WITH WALLENIUS WILHELMSSEN LOGISTICS

EDISON, N.J. – Nov. 24, 2009 – CIBER, Inc. (NYSE: CBR), a global provider of information technology (IT) services, announced today that they have been awarded a five-year contract with Wallenius Wilhelmsen Logistics, a leader in ocean transportation and outbound logistics. As part of the agreement, CIBER will provide global outsourcing services focused on the operation and maintenance of WWL's international data centers and distributed IT infrastructure.

As an independent provider of global factory-to-dealer transport solutions, WWL provides logistics leadership in a challenging economic environment. In order to enable WWL to meet their goals, CIBER's multi-country, 24X7 global solution includes three primary delivery locations including a central Service Desk in the U.S., a technical operations team in India, as well as an engineering team based in Europe. This contract will allow WWL to realize important cost reductions while ensuring 24X7 coverage.

"Owning a data center and running general IT operations is a highly specialized and competitive area that, long-term, is better handled by a specialist company with deep competence and sustainable resources," explains Andre Hellum, Head of Global IT Operations for WWL. "By choosing CIBER, we are confident that their expertise and flexibility will help enable our success."

"This contract demonstrates CIBER's intent to continually improve quality as well as accommodate the changing needs in WWL's IT structure. The implementation of these managed services will allow for improved efficiency and increased focus on internal as well as external customer service," said Scott Frock, Vice President of CIBER's IT Outsourcing Division. "We are looking forward to offering continued support and growing our relationship based on the goals and direction we have jointly outlined."
